

Monica and Jennifer's apartment:
1520 Yosemite Dr., Apt. #203
Eaglerock, CA

At Monica and Jennifer's apartment there was a lot of ghostly activity. Upon entering the apartment, I saw three ghosts: one in the living room whose name was Tom; the second ghost was Bill; the third was named Dolores, a Latina woman. Tom right away told me his story. He was in the Vietnam War. He showed me his worst moments in Vietnam. He was dressed in a combat military uniform with the colors faded (Please see drawing by Michael). His beret was dark blue. He had a shirt number 2028W, 3rd Battalion. Tom was walking with three guys in the jungle. He was walking in between the two guys with one a little in front of him. They were ambushed. I saw the Asian soldiers, a lot of them. The Asian man in the front had a rifle in one hand and a sable in the other. Tom ducked under a pile of dead bodies pretending to be dead. He was saved because they didn't see him. Tom died at the age of forty in that building where he resided. The last memory he had was Vietnam.

The second ghost was in the kitchen, Bill. He was a 98 yr. old man. He died in that building sleeping in a lazy boy recliner. The third ghost was in the bedroom. Her name was Dolores, a 58 yr. old Latina woman. She died in a fire on the land that the building now exists. She walks around and she likes the balcony because she says she can breathe. Monica and Jennifer wanted the ghosts gone. Not only did the San Gabriel Valley Paranormal Researchers send them to the light of God, but Bruce also videotaped the orbs as they left.
